

TCU School of Music

Student Recital Guidelines

- All performers must wear a face mask or similar covering for the duration of the performance.
- The performers, applied professor, and stage manager will be the only people in the hall for the duration of the performance. No other TCU students, faculty, staff, or external guests or visitors will be permitted to attend.
- No food or beverages will be served.
- Performers may perform without a mask if they meet the following criteria:
 - All repertoire is either solo and unaccompanied or performed with a recorded track.
 - In-person audiences will be strictly prohibited.
 - Applied professor has approved performing without a mask and plans to either sit in the booth or watch remotely from the live stream.
 - Performer is required to wear a mask when entering and exiting the venue, backstage, and at all other times on the TCU Campus.
 - Only one stage manager will be assigned to the event and will remain in the booth for the duration of the performance.
 - Prior to the recital hearing, the student and applied professor must inform Dr. Kirkendoll and the stage managers of plans to perform without a mask.
- The default recital option is no in-person audience
 - Students who want in in-person audience must select that option on the online Recital Scheduling form.
 - By opting for an in-person audience, the student and applied professor agree to the additional guidelines outlined below.

Recital Guidelines for In-Person Audiences

- All performers must wear a face mask or similar covering for the duration of the performance.
- Audience members must be TCU students, faculty, or staff with an advanced seat reservation. Maximum of 30 in the audience who will reserve a seat on OvationTix no less than 12 hours prior to the event. A TCU ID card and valid OvationTix reservation must be presented upon arrival at the student recital.
- No external guests or visitors will be permitted to attend. Please ask family and friends who are not permitted to join via livestream.
- Audience members must wear face mask/covering for the duration of the performance and sit in their reserved seat.
- Performers and audience will greet each other without physical contact.
- Performers and audience members will practice physical distancing of at least 6 feet.
- All performers and audience members will wipe down their chair, music stand, or similar shared surfaces at the conclusion of the performance.
- No food or beverages will be served.

Failure to adhere to any of the guidelines outlined above will result in the following.

- The event livestream will be turned off and the performance will be stopped.
- Any in-person audience members will be asked to leave the hall.

- The student will be reported to the Director and Dean for violating TCU policy.
- Depending on the severity of the violation, the Director and Dean will determine any additional penalties including, but not limited to, escalating the case to the Chancellor.
