Student Recital Guidelines – Fall 2021

- Face coverings, including bell covers and Win-D-Fenders, are required of all individuals while indoors.
- Physical distancing is expected for unvaccinated individuals.
- No food or beverages will be served.

The default recital option is with an in-person audience. However, recitals scheduled less than two weeks in advance of the recital date are not guaranteed an audience due to limited staff availability.

- Unvaccinated audience members are expected to wear a face covering and physical distance.

Failure to adhere to any of the guidelines outlined above will result in the following.

- The event livestream will be turned off and the performance will be stopped.
- Any in-person audience members will be asked to leave the hall.
- The student will be reported to the Director of the School of Music and Dean of the College of Fine Arts for violating TCU policy.
- Depending on the severity of the violation, the Director and Dean will determine any additional penalties including, but not limited to, escalating the case to the Dean of Students and Chancellor.

Any student wishing to give their recital off-campus may do so with written permission from their applied professor. Students giving a recital off-campus will still be required to provide a copy of their recital program for School of Music records.

Note that recitals given off-campus will not receive financial or resources support from the School of Music. These resources include, but are not limited to, the following.

- Assistance securing venue and reservation costs
- Stage Managers
- Recording assistance and inclusion in the library archive
- Livestream
- Ticketing/Front of House
- Web calendar listing
- Promotion
