

COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS

General Criteria on Faculty Appointment, Reappointment, Promotion, Tenure & Merit Increases, Revised and approved by the College Advisory Committee, April 16, 2018

The general criteria for faculty appointment, reappointment, promotion, tenure, and merit increases apply to all tenurable appointments in the College of Fine Arts. Each faculty member is evaluated in terms of his/her achievement in the following categories:

I. Teaching
II. Scholarship, creativity and its equivalents
III. Service to the University and the profession
IV. Advising and related activities
V. Professional Development
VI. Conduct in accord with the Statement on Professional Ethics

Teaching and scholarship and/or creative activity are the central considerations in reappointment and promotion. Satisfactory performance in all categories is expected; exemplary performance in one category will not substitute for deficient performance in another. Chairs and Directors should counsel individual faculty. Each has different strengths and should be directed to maximize their potential while still contributing in a collegial manner to all areas of faculty life.

In addition to the statements on criteria included in the Handbook for Faculty and Staff, the Dean, School Directors and Department Chairs of the College of Fine Arts believe the following additions and interpretation of stated criteria are useful in evaluating faculty in the College. (For convenience, the term Chair and Department shall now be used for all units.)

I. TEACHING

A. General Criteria

A primary component of a faculty member’s role in the College is quality teaching. Each faculty member should present the basic elements of the discipline, train students to use this knowledge, and encourage them to develop appropriate skills and intellectual abilities. Students should be instructed in the acquisition of cognitive and affective knowledge of the discipline. They should be encouraged to develop basic procedures, skills, and techniques. Faculty members should instill in students what constitutes the discipline’s quality by assisting their development of analytic, applied, or artistic skills augmented with theoretical concepts and historical material where appropriate.

The academic units comprising the College manifest a variety of instructional modes (e.g., lecture, studio, ensemble, and the like). Because faculty-teaching assignments may include more than one mode, their teaching should be evaluated by weighing the major mode more heavily than the minor one. In the case of equal distribution of modes, equal weighing is appropriate. The evaluation of teaching effectiveness may include a review of the instructor’s ability to: state course objectives, clearly interpret abstract ideas and theories, demonstrate respect for students, organize subject matter and courses well, give fair examinations and grades, and encourage students to think for themselves. Moreover, an effective teacher should possess a deep knowledge of the discipline and good speaking ability and/or other presentational skills.
Evidence of quality teaching must include evaluation by students, peers, and the Chair. Evaluation by students must be represented through administration of Student Perception of Teaching (SPOT). Results shall be summarized and forwarded to the next level by the department Chair, and the faculty member at his/her discretion may forward the full report. Each department shall have clear procedures for peer review of teaching that is applicable to all budgeted continuing faculty. Peer reviews normally occur each year for untenured faculty. Peer reviews for tenured faculty at the senior ranks shall be administered at least every five years (normally with the post-tenure review). Evaluation by peers will usually be by tenured faculty in the faculty member’s department or, under some circumstances, it may be by a professional educator, designated by the Dean in consultation with the faculty member, who is familiar with the faculty member’s discipline. Each tenured faculty member’s evaluation of a peer will be submitted to the Department Chair. Teaching evaluation shall be conducted in accordance with each unit’s individual procedures but must include SPOTs and at least two other evaluation methods.

B. Guidelines for Appointment, Reappointment, Promotion, Tenure & Merit Increases

The following qualifications and criteria, in accordance with the Handbook for Faculty and Staff, provide the basis for appointment, reappointment, promotion, tenure and merit increases within the College.

1. The Junior Faculty Ranks

   ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

   FOR APPOINTMENT: the candidate is expected to submit evidence of an appropriate degree, to demonstrate command of an appropriate body of knowledge, to demonstrate teaching ability or show promise of that ability in the classroom, and to show the ability to work effectively with colleagues and students, or the promise of doing so. Note: as a general rule, five years of service as an Assistant Professor are expected before consideration for promotion to the rank of Associate Professor.

   FOR REAPPOINTMENT: the candidate is expected to demonstrate an increasing knowledge of his or her discipline, growing competency in teaching, the willingness and competence to self-assess and improve teaching, and the ability to work effectively with colleagues and students. The candidate should provide supporting evidence of continuing growth in the discipline.

   FOR APPOINTMENT OR PROMOTION TO THE RANK OF ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR: the candidate is expected to demonstrate competence in teaching, a general understanding of a large part of the appropriate discipline, and in-depth knowledge of one or more areas of the field. The candidate must demonstrate the willingness and ability to work effectively with colleagues and students, contributing to the academic growth of all. Note: as a general rule, five years of service as an Assistant Professor are expected before consideration for promotion to the rank of Associate Professor. Appointments to Associate Professor from outside the College will require appropriate and substantive documentation of accomplishment in teaching and of knowledge ability of the field.
PROFESSOR

FOR APPOINTMENT OR PROMOTION TO THE RANK OF PROFESSOR: the candidate will demonstrate - by reputation, recognition and appropriate evaluative measures - mastery of bodies of knowledge, competence in the classroom, and the ability to work effectively with colleagues and students. Note: as a general rule, five years of service as an Associate Professor are expected before consideration for promotion to the rank of Professor.

II. SCHOLARSHIP, CREATIVITY AND ITS EQUIVALENTS

A. General Criteria

Another primary component of a faculty member’s role in the college is scholarship and/or creative activity. Each faculty member is expected to engage in significant scholarship and/or creative activity in the area of his or her specialization. Such activity should be (1) in addition to assigned teaching responsibilities, (2) consistent in productivity, and (3) subject to critical evaluation by peers and discipline professionals.

1. SCHOLARSHIP

Publication within refereed forums constitutes primary evidence of scholarship. Examples of acceptable publication forums include, but are not limited to, journal articles, monographs, books and book chapters. It is expected that a substantial portion of published scholarship will appear in the major forums within the individual’s discipline. While publication in the forums of related fields is encouraged, it must be in addition to, not in lieu of publication within the discipline. Multiple authorships are accepted and encouraged. However, faculty reviewed within this category must present significant evidence of independent scholarship.

Secondary evidence of scholarship is indicated by acceptance of essays, papers, seminars, workshops, etc., for presentation at professional meetings through open competition, invitation, and rigorous evaluation. Additional secondary evidence of scholarship is invited essays, reviews, and the like.

Both primary and secondary evidences of scholarly endeavors shall be evaluated on the basis of (1) quality, (2) forum in which the work was presented, (3) quantity, and (4) frequency.

a) Several indices of quality may be used in the evaluation of scholarly productivity. The relative importance of various types of scholarship may vary from unit to unit.

1) Acceptance of scholarship within the discipline.

This may be exemplified by (1) publication in refereed forums within the discipline, (2) the scholarly prestige of the journal or book publisher, 3) frequency of citation to the individual’s work by other authors, and/or (4) invited peer review of the faculty member’s works. (NOTE: The faculty member, with the approval of the Department Chair and the concurrence of the Dean and the Vice Chancellor, may invite two colleagues external to Texas Christian University, to serve as a jury of the work submitted. One other jury member must be appointed by the Chair.)

2) Magnitude of the individual project.
Since the parameters of this criterion often vary according to professional disciplines, it is the individual faculty member’s responsibility to submit evidence appropriate to this quality indicator.

3) Relative contribution of the faculty member to the scholarly work submitted for evaluation.
In cases of single authorship this indicator is clearly demonstrated. Multiple authorship suggests that the individual’s contribution decreases in importance according to the order of the authors’ names (e.g., first author contributed more than the second who contributed more than the third, etc.). Where this pattern does not accurately reflect relative contributions, the individual faculty, as supported by his/her co-authors, may submit evidence describing their individual levels of contribution.

b) Acceptable forums (not listed in order of importance) in which scholarly works appear include:

1) Books and book chapters.
Caliber of publisher, number of authors, and relative importance of the work should be considered

2.) Professional journals.
Journals within the faculty member’s discipline are most important, although publication in related fields is also encouraged. Differing values are also given to differing levels of journals (e.g., international/national, regional, state, and local).

3.) Other forums:
A faculty member who submits evidence of scholarly work that is not described in any of the above forums is responsible for submitting supportive evidence relative to (1) quality, (2) forum in which the work was presented, (3) quantity, and (4) frequency.

c) Faculty members are expected to demonstrate an amount of scholarly productivity appropriate to the purpose of their evaluation, i.e., reappointment, promotion, tenure, and merit increases.

d) Evidence of consistent productivity in scholarship must be provided by the individual faculty member.
2. CREATIVE ACTIVITY

“Creative Activity” is interpreted as the creation of original works as well as the direction of, or performance in, artistic productions.

Creative Activity/Artistry produced by faculty members will be evaluated on the basis of (a.) quality, (b.) forum in which the work was presented, (c.) quantity, and (d.) frequency. Success will be measured through professional critical review and/or peer evaluation within the discipline.

a) Several indices of quality may be used in the evaluation of creative productivity.
   1) Acceptance of creative work and artistry within the discipline.
      This may be exemplified by (1) having a substantial portion of one’s creative work presented at a recognized forum for the particular art form, (2) evidence of frequency with which one is invited to participate in endeavors directly associated with one’s particular field of expertise and/or (3) invited peer review of the faculty member’s works. (NOTE: The faculty member, with the approval of the Department Chair and the concurrence of the Dean and the Vice Chancellor may invite two colleagues external to Texas Christian University to serve as a jury of the work submitted. One other jury member must then be appointed by the Chair.).
   2) Magnitude of the individual project.
      Since the parameters of this criterion often vary according to professional disciplines, it is the individual faculty member’s responsibility to submit evidence appropriate to this quality indicator.
   3) Relative contribution of the faculty member to the artistic work submitted for evaluation.
   4) In cases of collaborative works, the individual faculty member may submit evidence describing his/her level of contribution.

b) Acceptable forms for juried and invitational creative work include:
   1) Solo and group exhibitions
   2) Competitions, festivals, recitals, concerts, and theatrical productions, etc.
   3) Design, direction, performance, and choreography
   4) Commissions
   5) Other forms: A faculty member who submits evidence of creative work that is not described in any of the above forms is responsible for submitting supportive evidence relative to (1) quality, (2) forum in which the work was presented, (3) quantity, and (4) frequency.
c) Faculty members are expected to demonstrate an amount of creative work appropriate to the purpose of their evaluation, i.e., appointment, reappointment, promotion, tenure, or merit increase.

d) Evidence of consistent productivity in creative work must be provided by the individual faculty member. Specific review processes will be determined by the individual departments.

IV. ADVISING AND RELATED ACTIVITIES

A. General Criteria

Advising activities include but are not limited to helping students plan academic programs, clarifying degree requirements, suggesting electives and complementary majors and minors, assisting students in course selection, monitoring student progress toward graduation, supporting students with academic difficulties, suggesting possible post-graduate education, making appropriate referrals, and assisting in career counseling.

Quality advising is reflected in a faculty member’s understanding of the University Curriculum, major, minor, and related requirements - from probationary status through credit by examination to the Honors Program. The faculty advisor must also have a thorough knowledge of advising materials and registration procedures. A faculty member who advises graduate students is expected to have an in-depth knowledge and understanding of those requirements necessary for successful completion of a graduate degree in the faculty member’s discipline within the College. Evidence of a faculty member’s quality performance in advising should include a review of not only the accuracy and value of the information disseminated, but also the advising technique reflected in the student/faculty advisor interactions. The following factors may also be considered when reviewing these areas: participation as a University pre-major advisor, attendance at and participation in advising workshops, the number of advisees, the amount of time spent not only at scheduled advising periods but also in informal advising throughout the school year.

The actual evaluation of a faculty member’s dedication to advising, considering the factors listed above, could consist of solicited and unsolicited feedback from students and colleagues as well as direct student evaluations.

Criteria are based on the PPP’s engagement as professional staff, creative and/or scholarly research, teaching, professional engagement in the field – or some combination of these areas. (e.g. If the PPP’s position is 50/50 - half as technical director for the program and half as teaching staff - criteria for assessment would be determined accordingly. Criteria for research/creative activity, teaching, service, advising – as applicable to the candidate’s contract - will align with the department/school and College of Fine Arts criteria as outlined for those on tenure/promotion tracks. This dossier is not submitted for external review. Assessment is conducted at the school/department and college levels only.

An Assistant or Associate Professor of Professional Practice denied promotion to the next higher rank must wait a minimum of two years before re-applying for promotion.
